NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON COMMUNITY AND REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN NIGERIA

NCCRDN 2026

PARTICIPANT REGISTRATION GUIDELINES AND CALL FOR PAPERS

8–9 December 2026
Dutse, Jigawa State, Nigeria

A guide for prospective participants, researchers, academics, students, development practitioners and institutional representatives.

1. About the Conference

The National Conference on Community and Regional Development in Nigeria is convened by the International Association for Community Development (IACD) and the Institute of Community Development Practitioners Nigeria (ICDP Nigeria). The conference will take place on 8–9 December 2026 in Dutse, Jigawa State, Nigeria.

The conference provides a platform for academics, researchers, policymakers, government institutions, development practitioners, civil society organisations, students and other stakeholders to exchange knowledge, present research, discuss practical experiences and explore approaches to sustainable community and regional development in Nigeria.

2. Who Should Participate?

- University and higher-institution academics and researchers.
- Undergraduate and postgraduate students.
- Community development and regional planning practitioners.
- Government ministries, departments and agencies.
- Non-governmental and civil society organisations.
- Development partners, private-sector organisations and consultants.
- Policymakers, local development leaders and interested members of the public.

3. Conference Participation Categories and Fees

The announced registration fees are:

Registration category	Conference fee
Paper presenter	₦25,000
Non-paper presenter / general participant	₦20,000
Student participant	₦20,000

The student fee is ₦20,000, as supplied by the organisers. Participants should select the category that accurately describes their participation.

4. How to Register

1. Open the official conference registration form using the link published on the conference website or by the organisers.
2. Enter your full name, active email address, telephone/WhatsApp number, country, state, city and institutional or organisational affiliation.
3. Select your participation category: paper presenter, non-paper presenter/general participant, or student participant.
4. If you intend to present a paper, indicate that you are a paper presenter and follow the abstract and full-paper instructions in Section 7.
5. Select your preferred payment method: online bank transfer or offline payment at the conference venue.
6. For bank transfer, pay the applicable fee into the official account stated in Section 5, then provide the requested payment details and transaction evidence in the registration form.
7. Review your entries and submit the form. Keep a copy or screenshot of your submission and payment evidence.

5. Conference Payment Details

Participants paying by bank transfer should use the account details below:

Bank	GTBank
Account name	Inclusive Community Education and Development Asociation

Account number	0020670026

Applicable fees: Paper presenter – ₦25,000; Non-paper presenter/general participant – ₦20,000; Student participant – ₦20,000.

Before making payment, carefully confirm the account name and number against the official instructions provided by the conference organisers. Do not pay into a personal account or an account communicated through an unverified source. If any payment detail appears inconsistent, contact the organising committee through an official conference channel before transferring funds.

6. Payment Options and Registration Confirmation

6.1 Online bank transfer

- Transfer the exact fee for your selected registration category to the GTBank account above.
- Use your full name as the transfer narration where your banking platform permits.
- Retain your transaction receipt and transaction reference/session ID.
- Enter the payment date, amount, originating bank and transaction reference in the registration form.
- Upload the transfer receipt if the form provides a file-upload field, or follow the evidence-submission instructions displayed in the official form.
- The committee will check the payment against its account records. A receipt or transaction reference is evidence for review; it is not, by itself, confirmation that payment has cleared.

6.2 Offline payment at the conference venue

Participants who choose to pay physically may complete the registration form and select the offline-payment option. They should visit the designated conference registration desk at the venue and pay the applicable fee to an authorised conference representative. Request an official receipt or written acknowledgement. Registration will be confirmed after the committee records and verifies the payment.

6.3 Registration status

Status	Meaning
Form submitted / payment pending	Participant details received; payment not yet verified.
Payment under verification	The committee is checking the transaction details.
Confirmed registration	The applicable fee has been received and verified.
Payment query	The committee needs clarification or additional evidence.

A registration form submission alone does not complete registration. Registration is complete only when the applicable payment has been received and verified by the organising committee.

7. Call for Papers: Abstract and Full-Length Paper Submission

Researchers, academics, students and development practitioners are invited to submit original research and practice-based papers relevant to community and regional development in Nigeria. Submissions may address policy, theory, research findings, field experiences, case studies, innovations or practical interventions.

7.1 Abstract submission

An abstract should clearly and concisely communicate the proposed or completed paper. It should include:

- A clear and informative paper title.
- The problem, context or development issue being addressed.
- The aim or objectives of the study or paper.
- A brief description of the methodology or approach, where applicable.

- The principal findings, expected contribution or key argument.
- The relevance of the paper to community and/or regional development.
- Three to five keywords.

Recommended abstract length: approximately 250–300 words, excluding title, author details and keywords. This is a practical preparation guide, not a confirmed official limit; follow any updated word limit or template issued by the conference secretariat.

7.2 Full-length paper submission

Authors whose abstracts are accepted should prepare and submit a full-length paper for review in accordance with the instructions communicated by the conference secretariat. A full paper should normally contain:

- Title; author name(s), affiliation(s) and corresponding author's email address.
- Abstract and keywords.
- Introduction and background to the study or issue.
- Statement of the problem, aim, objectives or guiding questions.
- Relevant literature review or conceptual/theoretical framework, where appropriate.
- Methodology or description of the evidence and approach.
- Results/findings and discussion, where applicable.
- Conclusion and practical or policy recommendations.
- References and relevant appendices.

Authors should ensure that the full paper is original, clearly written and properly referenced. Number and title tables and figures, cite them in the text, acknowledge all sources and obtain permission for material they do not own.

The final full-paper word/page limit, file format, citation style, page layout, originality/similarity requirements, submission deadline and official submission channel have not yet been provided. Authors must follow the final paper template or instructions issued by the conference. Abstract submission alone does not constitute full-paper submission.

7.3 Author and co-author details

- List all authors in the order in which they should appear in the programme or publication.
- Provide each author's institutional affiliation.
- Identify one corresponding author and provide a working email address and telephone number.
- Indicate the presenting author where there are multiple authors.
- Ensure all co-authors have reviewed and approved the submitted version.

7.4 Review and acceptance

Abstracts and full-length papers will be considered by the conference's designated academic/review team. Authors may be contacted for clarification, revision or additional information. Submission does not guarantee acceptance or presentation. Acceptance and presentation instructions will be communicated through the official contact details supplied by the author.

7.5 Paper presentation

Accepted paper presenters should follow the presentation schedule and technical instructions issued by the organising committee. Presenters should explain the research problem, approach, major findings and contribution to community or regional development. Presentation duration, slide format and session arrangements will be communicated in the conference programme.

8. Suggested Areas of Interest

The conference is concerned broadly with community and regional development. Relevant submissions may consider:

- Community-led development and local participation.
- Regional planning, inclusive growth and territorial development.

- Local governance, institutions and public policy.
- Rural and urban development.
- Poverty reduction, livelihoods and local economic development.
- Social inclusion, gender, youth and vulnerable populations.
- Education, health and community wellbeing.
- Infrastructure, housing and access to basic services.
- Environmental sustainability, climate resilience and natural-resource management.
- Digital innovation, technology and community development.
- Partnerships among government, communities, civil society and the private sector.

This list is indicative, not a substitute for the official conference sub-theme list. Authors should select the closest approved sub-theme in the submission form or consult the conference secretariat.
